Dressed for the Promenade

To discover the fairest thing in mortal eyes it is only necessary to stroll up the avenue or boulevard on a bright winter's day. If there is anything fairer than the little girl, dressed out for the promenade, in her midwinter finery, it remains undiscovered by a beauty-loving world. Next to her, the eye of mankind is delighted by the sturdy boy who is so much of a small man in his topcoat, hat, gloves, and cane, that are miniatures of those worn by the grown-up world.

The little girl of five years, and the boy of four, shown in the picture above, are correctly and beautifully dressed. It is a satisfaction to consider that this result of good judgment requires little money, and that even the children of millionaires cannot be more comfortably or more attractively clothed.

The girl is all in white, with a coat made of white chinchilla. It is cut on plain, ample lines, hanging straight except for a little flare in the plaited skirt. The collar, cuffs, and border at the bottom are of white fur, and there is a muff to match. These might be of white fox, but seldom are. The long-haired "bunny"—the hare—contributes a pet that masquerades as many other furs, with amazing cleverness. It is used for making children's fur sets and is pretty and inexpensive.

The bonnet is made of white crepe georgette and is trimmed with white satin ribbon and small pink chiffon roses. It has ties of the white ribbon. This bit of headwear is the one item that is liable to be extravagant in price, as much fine handwork comes into its construction. But bonnets just as pretty are not too difficult for the home milliner and when the cost of workmanship is eliminated the most elaborate ones are within reach of the average mother.

Long ribbed stockings, lined with black, and black-and-white shoes finish the toilette of the little maid whose face is like a blossom in the snow.

The boy wears a dark tan coat with patch pockets, a brown velvet hat and brown gloves. His suit is of linen with knickerbockers and Russian blouse. In his ribbed hose and white buttoned shoes he concedes himself to be not yet arrived at man's estate.

Fashion Notes.

New parasols for spring are being graced with extra short handles, which carry wrist straps of novel device, made of leather ribbon and velvet.

Grosgrain ribbon, running through a silver-faced eye to the handle, is fashioned into a conveniently made loop to hang from the wrist or arm of the owner.

These short-length parasols come in all colors and are much more agreeable in size for traveling usage than the extra long handle, which has been a recent vogue.

Making Ready the Spring Blouses

Now is the time to think of new blouses and to make them ready for spring and summer. Already the advance models for the coming season are shown in variety so great that it bewilders the thrifty buyer who aspires to making an early selection. To go about this in the right way it is necessary to classify each blouse according to its character, and that is determined by the use to which it is to be put. The new offerings show the shirt waist, the sport shirt, the demidress, and the dressy blouse, and all of them developed in any one, or two, of a dozen materials.

Whatever the design, it may be depended upon that the material is sheer or light in weight if not transparent, nearly always washable, whether cotton, linen, or silk, and that a combination of two fabrics is plentifully shown in blouses as in dresses, among the semidress and dressy models. High necks and low necks are almost equally in evidence, so that there is a choice of styles, and many dressy blouses and a few shirt waists fasten in the back.

Two beautiful models for dressy wear are shown in the picture, and they are representative styles. The blouse at the left is made of georgette crepe in white and maize color, and has a V-shaped neck with high turnover collar and long sleeves. The upper part of the blouse is of the white crepe set on to the lower part, in maize color, by a tuck with hemstitching at the top. There is a border an inch wide, of the maize color set about the edge of the turnover collar, and a wide band of it set in the cuff. The waist fastens down the front with black buttons having white rims.

A flower design in white floss outlined with black is embroidered on the maize-colored crepe, and all the seams in this elegant blouse are hem-stitched. It is machine made and can be bought, therefore, for about five dollars.

Next to it is a much more expensive affair made of marquisette, with every stitch in it put in by hand. French knots and pin tucks cover considerable of its surface. An applique and embroidery design of grapes and leaves makes an exquisite banding set into the material with a narrow cluny insertion. The standing collar is finished with a cluny edging.

This waist requires very little more outlay of money for material than the other, but the beautiful needlework in it makes it bring a stiff price. And the initiated who are able to gratify their cultivated and expensive taste pay something like forty dollars for it.

Green Not for Brunettes.
Green is an ill-becoming color for brunettes to wear.

"Any time you want read goodies use Calumet Baking Powder! My mother uses it—she's tried all others—she's learned her lesson—now she sticks to Calumet. 'Unequaled for making tender, wholesome, light biddings. Wonderful leavening and raising qualities—uniform results. Mother says Calumet is the old standard to buy and economical to use. Try it at once. Received Highest Awards. See Cook Book Page No. 10 for Food Cuts."

Cheap and big can Baking Powders do not save you money. Calumet does—it's Pure and far superior to sour milk and soda.

TO APPEAR AT COLLEGE

The next lyceum number at the college will be given 8 o'clock this evening by Meron Olson, a dramatic reader of national reputation. His entertainment, President Austin says, is expected to be one of the best of the entire course.

Before going on the platform Mr. Olson received thorough training in the famous Powers school, Boston. Mrs. Leland Powers says of him:

"Sometimes, not often, there is in one individual a combination of rare qualities that makes his success in this art assured. Mr. Olson, it seems to me, has this combination of rare gifts. He interprets great literature. His reading is virile, but full of imagination. His presence is commanding, but his simplicity is one of his strongest characteristics. His voice is powerful, but full of beauty."

BEST TREATMENT FOR CATARRH

S. S. S. Removes the Cause.

Specialists in Catarrh troubles have agreed that it is an infection of the blood. The laboratories of the S. S. S. Co. at Atlanta, have proven it. Once you get your blood free from impurities—cleansed of the Catarrh poisons, which it is now a prey to because of its unhealthy state—you will be relieved of Catarrh—the dripping in the throat, hacking and spitting, raw sores in the nostrils, and the disagreeable bad breath. It was caused, in the first place, because your impoverished blood was really infected. Possibly a slight cold or contact with someone who had a cold. But the point is—don't suffer with Catarrh—it is not necessary. The remedy, S. S. S., discovered over fifty years ago, tested, true and tried, is always obtainable at any drug store. It has proven its value in thousands of cases. It will do so in your case. Get S. S. S. at once and begin treatment. If yours is a long-standing case, be sure to write the Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga., for free expert medical advice. They will tell you how this purely vegetable blood tonic cleanses the impurities from the blood by literally washing it clean. They will prove to you that thousands of sufferers from Catarrh, after consistent treatment with S. S. S., have been freed from the trouble and all its disagreeable features and restored to health and vigor. Don't delay the treatment. Take S. S. S. at once.
